DETAILED ACTION

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 1-18 are allowed.

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: Claims 1-5 are found to be allowable due to following limitations:

said irregular transmission means acts as transmission means that is applicable when any error is present in a report communication provided by said regular report means, and is also applied when required as to a readout request for a monitoring input data of a specified address from said first control circuit section to said second control circuit section, and a readout request for reading out and checking a write save data having been written and set by said regular transmission means;

said irregular transmission means further acts as readout request means that makes a readout request again from the first control circuit section to the second control circuit section in the case of presence of any communication error in a report reply of a monitoring input data of a specified address or a write save data, said report reply being carried out as a confirmation reply to the fact that said second control circuit section has received said irregular transmission data;

said unprocessed data table acts as a receiving-side command memory arranged so as to sequentially save a command data for executing a confirmation reply when said second control circuit section receives any transmission data from said first control circuit section, and to sequentially erase said saved data when said second control circuit section transmits the confirmation reply data to said first control circuit section; and the transmission of a regular report data can be carried out while preventing upstream communication jam-up from said second control circuit section to said first control circuit section with said unprocessed data table.

Claims 6-18 are found to be allowable due to the above and following limitations:

said first and second communication error determination means act as plural types of receiving error determination means that determine presence of absence of any error regarding various regular and irregular communication packets that a control circuit section on the side where the mentioned determination means is provided has received from the other control circuit section, or that discriminate a state that any communication packet to be received cannot be received; said first and second adding-subtracting means act as operation means that adds or subtracts a second variation value when any of said plural types of receiving error determination means determines the presence of error, and subtracts or adds a first variation value when all the receiving error determination means determine the absence of any error to perform an addition-subtraction compensation with respect to a current value memory so as to offset each other, and stops an addition-subtraction compensation with said first variation value at a predetermined normal-side limit value when the determination of the absence of error continues.

These limitations in combination with the remaining limitations are seen as being neither anticipated nor obvious in view of the prior art.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."

Conclusion

Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Charles Ehne whose telephone number is (571)-272-2471. The examiner can normally be reached on Monday-Friday 8:30-5:00.
